

PRIVACY POLICY

Our Promise

We respect your privacy. We never share, rent, lease or sell your email or phone numbers with 3rd parties. We also do not sell or share your mailing address with for-profit entities. From time to time, upon request, we do share your mailing address with other nonprofit arts organizations that offer performances we believe might interest you. You may opt out of receiving mail from other arts organizations, or from receiving calls, mail or emails from the Omni Foundation at any time by contacting us at info@omniconcerts.com or by calling us at (415) 242-4500

Personal Information That Is Collected

As is standard in the industry, the Omni Foundation stores log files on a web server saving details such as our visitor's IP address, browser type, referring page and time of visit. Cookies may be used to remember our visitor's preferences when interacting with our website.

Cookies

Cookies are small digital files that are stored by your web browser which allow your preferences to be recorded when visiting our website. They are used by us through the Google Analytics service to track your return visits to the website which helps us gauge your interest in specific events and programming.
